▶ Tory House leader says Toronto 'elites' driving support for long-gun registry ▶ NDP leader believes party has enough votes to kill a bill to scrap registry

The Conservative government is blaming Toronto "elites" for pressuring MPs to save the controversial long-gun registry.

In a Thursday news conference, government House leader John Baird said it was the Toronto party leaders — the Liberals' Michael Ignatieff and NDP's Jack Layton — and elites behind the movement to defeat the Conservative private member's bill to scrap the registry.

Group lays down the law for lovers

Lessons in law may prevent marriage breakdown later, group says ◐ Driver's test type testing suggested

No one wants to think about the law when they're in love.

But that's just what an Ontario group looking to improve the family justice system is recommending.

The Law Commission of Ontario says giving people a lesson in the law before they marry may prevent marriage breakdowns later on.

The group released results Thursday of its consultations with people from its family law.

Julie Lassonde, a research lawyer with the commission, said family law is focused on marriage failure and there are scant resources to discuss family formation.

Lassonde said if a marriage collapses the process is easier if the couple knew of their obligations before they wed.

U of T ranked as best Canadian university

A radical overhaul of an influential ranking of universities has vaulted U.S. institutions into more than half of the top 50 places and the University of Toronto to the top of the Canadian pile.

The Times Higher Education (THE) rankings, released Thursday, rate nine Canadian universities in the top 200, the fifth-best showing of any country.

Along with the U of T at No. 17, the rankings put the University of British Columbia at 30, McGill University at 35, McMaster University at 93, the University of Alberta at 127, University of Victoria at 130, University of Montreal at 138, Dalhousie at 193 and Simon Fraser University at 199.

Under the old system, McGill last year ranked as the leading Canadian university on the list and the universities of Waterloo, Calgary, Western Ontario and Queen's were in the top 200.

"Under our previous rankings methodology, used between 2004 and 2009, the subject tables were based on just a single indicator — an opinion poll of academics, examining nothing but reputation," said THE editor Phil Baty.

The new methodology used 13 indicators that covered areas such as teaching and research (30 per cent each of the overall score), citations (32.5 per cent), industry income (2.5 per cent) and international mix (five per cent).

Ontario students pay the highest tuition: Report

Canadian Federation of Students Ontario represents more than 300,000 students across the province

A new report by Statistics Canada shows Ontario university students are paying the highest tuition fees in the country.

The agency says on average, Ontario undergraduates are paying $6,307, while students in Quebec continue to have the lowest tuition fees at $2,415.

The Canadian Federation of Students Ontario says the province's undergraduate fees have increased by 5.4 per cent, while graduate fees have spiked 10 per cent.

It says that appears to be higher than the maximum allowable fee increase percentage set out by the governing Liberals.

The group says it's the second year in a row Ontario students had the highest fees and are calling on Premier Dalton McGuinty to address the ballooning costs.

6.6%

Nationally, graduate students faced larger tuition increases than undergraduates — 6.6 per cent more than in 2009-10, compared with an increase of four per cent for undergraduates.

No signs in public for candidate

You won't see John Gray's face plastered all over the city as election signs start sprouting in Oshawa.

The mayor, who is seeking a second term in the Oct. 25 municipal election, is only putting his green and white placards on private property to cut waste and visual pollution.

With 51 candidates for mayor and council, "there will be an absolute sea of signs that degrades the city," said Gray, estimating he will keep about 700 signs out of the clutter.

Sixth hotel strike held downtown

Workers at Westmont-owned hotels were once again on strike in Toronto, this time at the downtown Holiday Inn Express.

According to the hotel's union, Unite Here, about 25 employees from the hotel — located at Lombard and Jarvis streets — walked off the job Thursday morning as part of a one-day strike.

The action marks the sixth time employees of the hotel chain have gone on strike in Toronto within the last two weeks.

Oakville United Way seeks $3.6M

Live United.

It's a call to action echoing throughout Oakville where the United Way has set its sights on raising $3.6 million during the 2010 campaign.

"Oakville is a great place to live but it needs to be a great place for everyone to live," said United Way of Oakville campaign cabinet chair Mary Cardamone. "We need to work together to make sure our agencies have the resources and funding to help the people in Oakville who need it — isolated seniors, children who go to school hungry and individuals living in abusive situations. It is our town and we are in this together."

Donations will help support 60 programs and 31 front-line agencies. Last year, UWO invested $2.194 million in its member groups.

Pub owner threatens lawsuit against Ford

COLIN MCCONNELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Boardwalk Pub owner George Foulidis appears at a press conference Thursday. He threatened to sue mayoral candidate Rob Ford over comments about Toronto's sole-source contract with the Beach eatery.

Ford first alleged corruption at city hall in August, drawing rebukes

The family that owns the Boardwalk Pub has threatened to sue front-runner Rob Ford if he refuses to apologize for calling them corrupt.

At a Thursday morning press conference, owner George Foulidis said his family has become a "political football" and Ford has been exploiting them for political gain.

Ford's campaign was served with a libel notice Thursday, said Foulidis' lawyer Brian Shiller, in connection to comments the mayoral candidate made in the Toronto Sun.

The crusading conservative was quoted as saying the contract "smacks of civic corruption" and "stinks to high heaven." Ford is quoted as having said: "It's confidential and I wish you guys knew what happened behind closed doors."

The notice of libel accuses Ford of insinuating Foulidis bribed a local politician to help his family secure a 20-year exclusive vending rights contract near the foot of Woodbine Avenue.

"It takes two to tango. It's only possible that Mr. Foulidis was therefore acting illegally if city council was acting illegally. They had to be in cahoots in some way. It's very clear that Mr. Ford has accused Mr. Foulidis of illegal conduct."

LAWYER BRIAN SHILLER

The fact that he does not directly accuse Foulidis, the restaurant or the family's business — Tuggs Inc. — of corruption is irrelevant, said Shiller.

Ford's campaign did not respond to an interview request from the Toronto Star, but he has told other media he does not plan to apologize.

Metrolinx deemed key to easing gridlock

Gridlock is getting so bad that a $50-billion Metrolinx regional master plan is considered essential to keep Toronto from falling behind as an international city, business leaders were told Thursday morning.

The costs to the Greater Toronto Area are $6 billion annually and could grow to $15 billion a year, said Toronto Board of Trade president Carol Wilding and Metrolinx president and CEO Bruce McCuaig.

"We are ranked among the worst cities globally for commute times by the OECD (Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development)," McCuaig said later in an interview.

Wilding agreed, saying "commute times are the longest of major global cities and they're getting worse."

Metrolinx, a provincial government agency, has been tasked with delivering a $50-billion project that will transform the transit system across the region over the next 25 years. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Priorities

President and CEO Bruce McCuaig laid out Metrolinx's priorities Thursday:

- Get the Union-Pearson air-rail link built.
- Expand and improve GO Transit.
- Develop an investment strategy and make a recommendation by June 1, 2013.
- Sheppard light rail transit line, scheduled to be completed in 2014.
- York VIVA Rapid Way, to be completed incrementally over the next 10 years.
- Eglinton light rail transit line. Tunnelling is to be the next groundbreaking project set to begin next year.
- Scarborough rapid transit renewal, with work to begin in 2015 to replace the existing system and extend it further north.
- The new Finch light rail transit line, from Finch West to Humber College area, also to get underway in 2015 and completed in 2019.

Rossi pitches suggestion box

To start the week, mayoral candidate Rocco Rossi proposed building an eight-kilometre expressway tunnel beneath Toronto.

Thursday, on a less controversial note, he proposed a suggestion box.

Calling city hall "deaf" to the ideas of Toronto citizens, Rossi announced his plan to create a Toronto Good Ideas Foundation — or "TGIF" — huddled under a tent in the pouring rain across from the island airport at a small news conference.

"This may be new at city hall, but it's not new in the real world," Rossi said.

Along with a suggestion box at city hall, Rossi's TGIF would also have a website, where people can submit their ideas.

"I say that the best ideas come from the ordinary Torontonians, the front-line workers, who understand the problems that are facing our city because they live them each and every day."

▶ Actor William Shatner took to Twitter upon learning his star on Canada's Walk of Fame was in need of repair.

WALK OF FAME

NEW PLAQUES FOR SHATNER, HOWE

Damaged stars belonging to Mr. Hockey and Captain James T. Kirk on Canada's Walk of Fame will be replaced.

The president of the walk organization says new plaques have been ordered for legendary Detroit Red Wings right-winger Gordie Howe and Star Trek actor William Shatner.

The City of Toronto will install the new red granite plaques as soon as possible, Peter Soumalias said Thursday in a statement.

"Canadians coast-to-coast have expressed concern about this and we're certainly committed to the ongoing maintenance of the walk," Soumalias said.

The plaque belonging to Howe, a four-time Stanley Cup winner, has a crack on the bottom left corner and some chips out of it.

That had the walk and city officials in the penalty box with some fans.

"The broken stone is disrespectful to a Canadian legend," wrote one Twitter user about Howe's plaque, which was installed in 2000.

Shatner's plaque, also installed in 2000, looks like it was shot up by a phaser along the edge.

The former Boston Legal and T.J. Hooker star turned to Twitter after The Canadian Press contacted his spokesman.

"I hear my star on the Canadian Walk of Fame is a bit frazzled ... but, then again, so am I," Shatner tweeted.

MPP has bugs in her bonnet

- Private member's bill calls for landlords to pay for bedbug inspections
- Landlords' group says its membership is already 'heavily regulated'

CARLOS OSORIO/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ A Greenleaf Pest Control display shows a bedbug next to an apple seed.

New Democrat MPP Cheri DiNovo is pushing for a law forcing landlords to be licensed and their premises inspected for bedbugs, saying Ontario is "doing nothing" to stop the growing scourge of pests.

"It protects good landlords and calls bad landlords to account," the MPP for Parkdale-High Park said Thursday in proposing a private member's bill.

Her effort follows another bedbug bill by Liberal MPP Mike Colle (Eglinton-Lawrence) in June that would require landlords to present prospective tenants with a "bedbug information report" before a lease is signed.

DiNovo's idea got a cool reception from Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Rick Bartolucci in the legislature, who said he prefers Colle's plan.

"It is an initiative that we should pay very, very close attention to and I look forward to seeing that private member's bill work its way through the system," he said.

A group representing landlords that owns five units or less — often in the same building where the landlords live — accused DiNovo of "political opportunism" for trying to lump bedbugs in with the larger issue of landlord licensing.

"Let's focus on the bedbugs first," said Stuart Henderson of the Ontario Landlords' Association, which encourages its members to inspect and clean units when tenants leave.

Hard to kill

- Bedbugs, which can live for up to 18 months without eating, are tiny and resilient.
- Their eggs can even withstand vacuuming.
- Getting rid of the pests requires careful steaming and thorough vacuuming of carpets and broadloom, sealing of cracks, and washing of clothes and linens.

Photos of gang rape posted online: RCMP

A 16-year-old girl was drugged and raped repeatedly by partygoers at a weekend rave near Vancouver as onlookers snapped photos that have since found their way onto Facebook, the RCMP said Thursday.

The attack happened at a rave last Friday night on a rural property near Pitt Meadows, east of Vancouver. Police believe the girl was given a substance commonly known as the date-rape drug.

"It's essentially one male having intercourse and when he's done, another one participates — that's a gang rape," Insp. Derren Lench said in an interview.

Lench said the girl was drugged and, while she wasn't unconscious at the time, she was incapable of consenting as several people had intercourse with her. He described the assault as "violent" and said the girl was left with undisclosed injuries.

A 16-year-old boy was arrested and later released as prosecutors consider charges of producing and distributing child pornography.

- Lench said the RCMP have been contacting Facebook users who have posted the photos and demanded they be deleted. Many have complied, he said, but some have refused.
- "Every time it's shut down on one (account), it seems to reappear and it's been shared in several communities in the Lower Mainland, so the victim has to relive it on a daily basis."

NDP MP fifth to reverse on guns

Layton says he would like to see changes to inheritance guidelines, ID rules for First Nations and the merging of two classes of licences into one

Northern Ontario MP Carol Hughes has become the fifth New Democrat to publicly reverse her position on the controversial long-gun registry.

Hughes, who helped push a bill to abolish the registry through second reading, now says she will vote to defeat the measure.

She said Thursday she's "committing to improving Canada's flawed long-gun registry" and "rejecting Stephen Harper's increasingly divisive campaign to scrap it outright."

"This is not a decision I have taken lightly," said Hughes.

The bill's fate rests on a Commons vote next week, and the numbers are extremely close.

"I have reviewed a years' worth of input from people across this riding — hundreds of mail-back cards, phone calls, notes from meetings and reports. And I can tell you that their views about the registry are rich and diverse, just like they are everywhere else in the country."
CAROL HUGHES

The bill passed second reading with the help of 12 New Democrats and eight Liberals, but Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff said he's told his caucus to vote against it going any further.

The New Democrats allow MPs to vote as they will on private bills, but party leader Jack Layton says he has mustered enough votes to kill the bill.

At a news conference Thursday, Layton would not disclose which other MPs may be changing their minds.

Layton said he had a simple message for Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

"You don't have the votes to adopt your bill but you do have the power to work with us to fix the registry, to deal with outstanding complaints and to approve public safety in Canada," he said.

Families of shooting victims call NDP to save registry

Relatives of the victims of Canada's worst mass shooting are urging NDP Leader Jack Layton to secure more votes to save the gun registry.

Joined by students and graduates of the Universite de Montreal's Ecole polytechnique, the group gathered in Layton's Toronto riding Thursday.

They called on the NDP leader to do everything he can — short of directing the votes of his caucus — to ensure New Democrats don't help the Tories dismantle the registry.

Aussie medicine the right prescription?

It may help Canada deal with migrant ships, says minister ◗ Politician going to Australia to investigate

Welcome mat?

Do Australia's migrant laws work? Critics are divided.

- Australia detains illegal migrants arriving by sea, at times keeping them on remote islands and then sending them to other countries before they can have a refugee hearing.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney is upfront about Down Under.

He says Canada can learn from Australia's experience in dealing with migrant ships.

Kenney is heading to Australia on a fact-finding mission to help shape Ottawa's promised crackdown on migrant ships.

The Conservatives plan to kick off the fall session of Parliament with a new package of rules.

"I'm not saying Australia has some kind of a perfect remedy for Canada to emulate," Kenney said from Manila, Philippines.

"I am saying, though, that they have a lot of practical and applied experience with the situation and there may be ways in which we can co-operate with Australia in addressing the issue."

Doctor shot when he breaks the bad news

Gunman became distraught about ill mom ◆ Two-hour standoff

A man who became distraught as he was being briefed on his mother's condition at Johns Hopkins Hospital pulled a gun and shot the doctor Thursday. Then he killed his mother and himself in her room at the world-famous medical centre in Baltimore.

The 50-year-old man holed up inside his mother's room for two hours during a standoff with authorities. Officers found him dead on the floor and his mother dead in her bed. The man was initially identified as Warren Davis, but police later said that was an alias. His real name was Paul Warren Pardus.

The doctor, who was wounded in the abdomen, was expected to survive.

Historic visit to U.K. by Pope

Pope Benedict XVI issues strongest statements yet on abuse crisis ◗ Tepid response to visit by Britons

Pope Benedict XVI braved a chilly atmosphere Thursday in mostly secular Britain to issue his strongest comments yet on the sex abuse crisis, admitting that the Catholic Church had not acted decisively or quickly enough to remove priests who molested children.

Speaking to reporters travelling with him from Rome, Benedict said the church's top priority now was to help abuse victims heal — yet the comments failed to satisfy victims' groups. Benedict's historic four-day visit has been overshadowed by disgust over the abuse scandal and indifference in Britain, where Catholics are a minority at 10 per cent and endured centuries of bloody persecution and discrimination until the early 1800s.

The trip is the first state visit by a pope to the U.K., and his meeting with Queen Elizabeth II was symbolically significant because of the historic divide between the officially Protestant nation and the Catholic Church.

Yet only 65,000 of the faithful had tickets to an open air Mass in Glasgow, compared to the 100,000 previously expected. The British media has been particularly hostile to the visit, noting its $18.7 million US security cost to taxpayers at a time of austerity measures and job losses.

Energy talks evoke fears of NEP in Alberta

Provincial energy ministers meet to discuss a national strategy ◐ Trudeau's National Energy Program crippled Western oil industry in the 1980s

Canadian politicians will debate the merits of a national energy strategy this week, a divisive idea that still drives chills up some spines in Western Canada.

Energy ministers from 10 provinces and territories agreed Thursday that the country's natural resources are packed with energy opportunities.

But they disagreed on how to co-ordinate Canada's vast power supply.

"The last thing we need is a federally imposed national energy program like we had imposed on certain parts of the country back in the '80s," Alberta Energy Minister Ronald Liepert told an energy conference in Montreal. "This is not about one part of the country developing resources at the expense of the other, it's about all of us pulling our socks up."

For some, the prospect of a countrywide energy framework evokes bad memories of the defunct national energy program, a controversial system still loathed by Albertans.

The Pierre Trudeau-era program set limits on the price of oil, which wound up crippling Alberta's industry.

Book claims Michelle Obama described life in White House as 'hell'

The White House is denying that first lady Michelle Obama ever described her White House life as "hell."

Mrs. Obama's spokeswoman, Katie McCormick Lelyveld, responded Thursday to a purported comment attributed to Mrs. Obama in a forthcoming book, Carla And The Ambitious, about French first lady Carla Bruni-Sarkozy.

The book says Bruni-Sarkozy recalled that during a recent White House visit with her husband, the French president, she asked Mrs. Obama about her new role.

According to the book, Mrs. Obama replied: "It's hell. I can't stand it."

The French Embassy in Washington also released a statement denying Mrs. Obama ever said those words.

The embassy says Bruni-Sarkozy "distances herself completely" from the book, which is due out Friday.

Tory MPP's bill backs bicyclists

There could soon be more paved shoulders on the side of some secondary provincial highways in Ontario to encourage more cyclists and make roads safer for everyone.

Progressive Conservative Norm Miller's private member's bill, which would require a one-metre paved shoulder be added whenever designated secondary highways are being resurfaced, passed second reading Thursday with support from all three parties.

The paved shoulder would allow vehicles to pass cyclists without having to swerve into the lane of oncoming traffic, said Miller.

"Without a paved part of the shoulder, you're taking your life in your hands to go out for a ride on a provincial highway," he said.

"Obviously, if the shoulder is paved there's also a bigger margin of safety for the motorist, too."

Cycling advocates strongly supported Miller's bill.

Eleanor McMahon, founder of the Share the Road Cycling Coalition, said her husband, Ontario Provincial Police Sgt. Greg Stobbart, was killed in 2006 while riding his bike north of their home in Milton.

"Had Greg had a paved shoulder, he would have been riding on it and he almost certainly would be here today," said McMahon.

Preparing for violence

- Afghan election set for Saturday
- NATO working to prevent a repeat of last year's bloodshed

DENE MOORE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ A member of Bravo Company, 6 Platoon, passes a lonely election campaign poster posted on a wall outside a Canadian outpost in Nakhonay, Afghanistan.

The last time Afghans went to the polls, Taliban insurgents threatened to cut the fingers off anyone who bore the telltale ink stain that identified those who cast a ballot.

In the Panjwaii district of Kandahar province, they followed through.

At least two men had their fingers amputated in the violent Taliban stronghold that is now the focus of Canada's soldiers in Afghanistan, and the one prediction that coalition forces will make for Saturday's follow-up vote is that insurgents will do whatever they can to keep people from the polls.

"If it is like it was last year, it will be a very violent day," said Maj.-Gen. Nick Carter, who heads up Regional Command South for the International Security Assistance Force, the formal name of NATO's military coalition in Afghanistan.

Taliban threats were posted on mosque walls throughout the district last year and insurgents undertook a campaign of assassinations. The sound of bombs intermittently echoed through the city the night before the vote.

Carter said he couldn't predict what would happen Saturday, but suggested that a day that's "slightly less violent than the one we had last year" is about the best anyone can hope for.

Northern town chooses paper over plastic

The northwestern town of Sioux Lookout has voted to ban the use of plastic bags, aiming to keep them out of the local landfill and off the streets.

Town council voted 5-2 Wednesday night in favour of the ban.

Mayor Kathy Poling says there will be a 12-month phase-in period to allow for public education, and help businesses with next summer's tourism season.

"Currently, we're estimating the bags being distributed in Sioux Lookout at between 750,000 and one million," Poling said.

Coun. Joyce Timpson said it's hoped the Sioux Lookout ban will prompt other Ontario communities to follow suit.

Some retailers have been opposed to the move, but Timpson said most have accepted the decision.

Peace talks yield cautious optimism

- U.S. Secretary of State says two sides are seeking common ground
- Egyptian leader says he urged Israeli PM to extend West Bank limits

West Bank issue

Benjamin Netanyahu's office said Israel doesn't plan to extend limits on West Bank settlement. The limits are due to expire in late September.

- Hope for compromise Israeli officials said they hoped to reach a compromise well before the expiration date — Sept. 26 — in hopes of avoiding a major crisis.
- Feeling's mutual Aides to Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said no deal had been reached on the settlement issue, but said they accept Mubarak's proposal and expect a compromise will be found.

Two days of Mideast peace talks appear to have brought Israel and the Palestinians closer to a deal that would allow those talks to continue, but even if the negotiations move forward far more difficult issues lay ahead.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak suggested a compromise over Israel's plan to lift its partial ban on construction on the West Bank later this month, while Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said Thursday he sees no alternative to continuing negotiations in search of peace with Israel.

Abbas' comments came as Israel was coming under increasing pressure to extend its curb on Jewish settlement construction, and aides to the Palestinian leader suggested there might be movement toward a compromise on that issue. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Funds for Pakistan may be limited: U.S.

United Nations said last week that it had received $310 million toward its initial emergency appeal

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Richard Holbrooke

The world will only be able to fund around 25 per cent of the tens of billions of dollars needed to rebuild Pakistan after the floods, and its government will have to make up the shortfall, the U.S. envoy to the country warned Thursday.

Richard Holbrooke said America would not condition its assistance to the country, but warned the U.S. Congress might not be generous if it felt Pakistan was not taxing its own citizens enough.

Pakistan's rich have traditionally not paid much tax on their income or their property — either because they evade them or are exempt — and the country's collection rates are among the lowest in the world.

Critics have pointed to this shortage of revenue in recent weeks as Pakistani leaders have sought international aid. The country's economy is surviving on international assistance, and the floods are expected to badly slow economic growth further.

"I don't want to withhold money they need, but I think we have to be clear that the Congress is going to be reluctant to give money if the money is filling in a gap because people are not paying taxes," Holbrooke said during a visit to Karachi.

Monsoon rains triggered massive floods six weeks ago that spread across the country.

Rebels blamed for deadly bombing

A roadside bomb attack killed nine people travelling on a minibus Thursday, authorities said, in the latest violence to shake Turkey's turbulent southeast, where Kurdish guerrillas have been fighting for autonomy for decades.

Turkish troops launched an operation to hunt those believed to be behind the attack, which also injured four people, including a 15-month-old baby, near the village of Gecitli in the rugged Hakkari province bordering Iran and Iraq, Hakkari Gov. Muammer Turker said.

Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan vowed to press ahead with the fight against the rebels of the Kurdistan Workers' Party, or PKK. The PKK later denied responsibility.

"These kinds of incidents will not deter us," Erdogan said after the attack.

French president has heated words with EU officials over Roma

French President Nicolas Sarkozy vowed Thursday to keep dismantling illegal immigrant camps and vigorously defended his government against EU criticism that France is unfairly targeting Gypsies.

A war of words over France's actions overshadowed an EU summit in Brussels and hijacked its main goal of forging a common EU front on the global stage.

Sarkozy insisted France's expulsions of Gypsies, or Roma, are a matter of security. He called more than 100 Roma camps dismantled in France in recent weeks havens of crime and undignified living conditions.

Sarkozy had what participants called a heated exchange with European Commission President Jose Manuel Barroso over the expulsions, and later lashed out at EU Justice Commissioner Viviane Reding for comparing the expulsions to deportations during the Second World War. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fragile cod stocks can recover, group says

An international conservation group says Canada and other nations could rebuild depleted cod stocks if they clamp down on bycatch — fish that are caught unintentionally — and develop a recovery plan.

The World Wildlife Fund wants the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Organization meeting next week in Halifax to press countries to reduce bycatch so stocks on the Grand Banks off Newfoundland and Labrador can rebuild.

Bob Rangeley of the Atlantic branch of WWF-Canada says cod stocks have been increasing steadily but are still at near historically low levels and won't fully recover unless countries deal with cod bycatch.

Bycatch effects

- Protected. Hundreds of tonnes of cod, which are protected under a moratorium introduced in July 1992, are caught every year by boats fishing for other species.
- Stock. The practice depletes young fish and has helped keep the stock size to just 10 per cent of what it was in the 1960s.

DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

NEW STADIUM? LET PEOPLE DECIDE

If we needed more proof that politicians work for themselves and not for us, it has arrived.

Our leaders want to finance 100 per cent of the new Colisée de Québec with our taxes. Stephen Harper is hesitating, but his deputies in Quebec have already said yes. What a spectacle they made posing for photos wearing Nordiques jerseys, pandering to Quebec City voters. Pathetic.

The project will be a black hole for dollars. The idea is to cough up $400 million (about $200 million from Canadian taxpayers), and then to soak up a $3.5-million deficit each year. All without asking the private sector to throw in a single penny. Smack in the middle of an economic crisis, too, with our hospitals crumbling and our debt increasing by $135 million per day.

Do most Canadians (or Quebecers, for that matter) want to pay for this project? Makes no difference. Our politicians will do it anyway. There are seats up for grabs in Quebec.

This debate has brought out the beggars. "Montreal has its concert hall, we want our Colisée!" "We spend money on culture, why not on hockey?" Mayors of other Canadian cities are already up in arms. Everyone wants a new stadium.

Meanwhile, the mother of two who, between preparing lunches and helping with homework, has no time for lobbying, sees her taxes keep rising. Someone has to pay for the goodies handed out to the beggars.

If this is democracy, it needs an overhaul.

How? Let's hold a referendum, periodically, for large expenses. The deterioration of our public finances and the irresponsibility demonstrated over and over again by our politicians demands it.

Do taxpayers want to go into debt for a stadium? Pay a billion dollars for a G20 summit? Give subsidies to multinationals? Bring on a referendum and let's find out.

Sounds crazy? The Swiss have been doing it for more than a century. So have several American states. In Porto Allegre, Brazil, citizens get together to vote on budgetary priorities for the year. It's called direct democracy. (Even B.C. has its own watered-down version.) By subjecting each law to a general vote if they want to, seven million Swiss keep a tight rein on their government, making sure it concentrates on its primary missions. But it doesn't happen all that often. Politicians, conscious of the "referendum threat," restrain themselves. So do beggars.

If we can't change the way politicians are, we must change democracy.

China preparing bid for Potash?

A state-owned Chinese chemical company is seeking cabinet approval to make a competing bid to mining giant BHP's $38.5-billion offer for Canada's Potash, but says such a deal might be too big and impractical, a business magazine reported.

Beijing has expressed unease that a BHP Billiton Ltd. takeover of Potash Corp. of Saskatchewan might create a "potash monopoly" that would boost prices and hurt China, a major importer of the mineral used in fertilizer.

Sinochem Corp. submitted a report to the cabinet on a possible Potash bid, seeking support such as low-interest loans, Caijing reported.

Potash rejected BHP's initial bid last month as too low and says it has talked with other parties.

Canadian officials are wary of a possible Chinese takeover of Potash.

Saskatchewan's resources minister said last week a state-owned Chinese buyer would want to overproduce and drive down prices, which would hurt the province financially.

China regularly clashes with potash producers over prices. Contract talks with Canadian suppliers broke down this year after Beijing demanded a much lower price than they would accept.

Economy slowing sharply: TD Bank

The Toronto-Dominion Bank is warning that Canada's economy will slow sharply in the second half of 2010.

TD has also shaved half a percentage point off its growth forecast for next year, saying the economy will only expand by two per cent in 2011.

That's almost a full point below the Bank of Canada's latest prediction.

But that fast pace of recovery has ended, and TD forecasts the current third quarter will have produced a very weak 1.5 per cent advance.

4.3% TD's economists say the economy has been on a good run since last fall, with an average growth rate of 4.3 per cent.

TD says the last three months of the year won't be much better, with growth estimated at two per cent.

RIM shows BlackBerry still popular

Research In Motion Ltd. reported a sharp increase of $796.7 million US in its latest quarterly earnings, compared with $475.6 million a year ago, as it shipped more new BlackBerrys than expected.

It said it added 4.5 million net new BlackBerry subscriber accounts in the quarter, and shipped 12.1 million smartphones — suggesting the company is doing well in the cutthroat consumer market.

5 MINUTES WITH: MARC DORFMAN

Leave it to the veteran Four Season Hotel food and beverages manager to dish on the wacky dining habits of the stars while remaining perfectly, inscrutably discreet.

Is TIFF the busiest time of year for you?
Absolutely. It's a 10-day festival. It is kind of front-loaded in the sense that the first five days tend to be very, very busy for everybody and then it tapers off toward the end of the week. Controlled mayhem as we like to call it.
What are the biggest challenges to ensure everything runs according to Four Seasons standards?
I guess it's the sheer volume. Obviously, we're in a sold-out position and we have guests that are very demanding, but that's our forte. When you have a full house of movie personalities — let's call them — they have a lot of requests. And I'm sure you're going to ask me what some of those requests are.
You better believe it.
Some of the requests are strange, but a lot of them aren't. I'm sure you can imagine the whole organic movement — that's very popular. We tend to see a lot of stars still on the health side. However, in room service, especially late at night, a lot of the orders are more or less comfort food. We do see the mac and cheese and pizzas coming through late at night.
Anything that's unusual enough to stick out in your mind?
Now you put me on the spot! I'm going to say no, because we have so many different kinds of requests that nothing really seems strange to us, whether it's one colour of jelly bean or Greek yogurt flown in from Greece. Those are the kinds of requests we get. But we're typically given notice for that.
Would any of those requests seem strange, perhaps to the rest us mere mortals?
We can't talk about the names, but some of our guests will tend to order half the menu in its entirety and then pick which dish they want when it arrives.
And what do they do with the rest of the food?
It will go to their staff, their handlers. It doesn't go to waste. And I guess that's a little unusual.
On that note, how many bottles of champagne do you think you go through during festival?
Between parties, bars, room service, about 1,000 bottles. ● JORDANA DIVON

Understand your mind

Worth mentioning

New research has uncovered a part of the brain that is larger in people who seem particularly introspective.

Some people know their minds better than others, and research being reported Friday is a step at understanding the biology behind that important part of human consciousness.

It is work necessary for one day tackling brain injuries or diseases that rob people of key aspects of self-reflection — such as schizophrenia patients who are not aware they are ill and thus do not take their medication.

By learning the neurologic basis of self-awareness, "might we be able to come up with potential strategies to intervene in these cases and improve people's introspective ability?" asks Stephen Fleming of University College London, lead author of the new research published in the journal Science.

Introspection is basically thinking about your thinking, a way to judge your own thoughts and actions — and inherently difficult to study. The British research team devised a way to measure introspective ability by comparing people's confidence in a decision they made with the accuracy of that decision.

Metro Minute with Queen W. Art Crawl

There's so much art going on right now in this city it's literally exploding onto the sidewalks. The Queen West Art Crawl toasts its eighth year tonight with an opening gala at the Gladstone Hotel (1214 Queen St. W.). Guests will be sure to grab on to their cocktails for dear life during the evening's thrilling Art Battle: A messy faceoff that involves two artists, gobs of paint, and a stopwatch. Paintings will be auctioned off for charity. For the rest of the weekend, stay close to Parkdale, where more than 500 local artists will be exhibiting their work and performing live art exhibits and installations. For more, see www.parkdaleliberty.com.

▶ Director Werner Herzog on the set of his documentary Caves of Forgotten Dreams.

3-D underground

Werner Herzog's Caves of Forgotten Dreams is a visually stunning documentary

PHIL BROWN
FOR METRO TORONTO

"Essentially I've made every film that I really wanted to make with one or two exceptions and they don't give me sleepless nights. But I'm probably one of a very small handful of filmmakers who somehow managed to make all the films I wanted to make the way I wanted to make them at the time I wanted to make them. It's absolutely unprecedented and a very rare privilege.
WERNER HERZOG ON HIS CAREER

Few filmmakers have been as ridiculously productive as Werner Herzog. The director already has 59 titles to his name and while his latest work Caves Of Forgotten Dreams premieres at this year's TIFF, the director laughs about the fact that, "I had my previous opening night for another film only 10 days ago."

The new movie is a bit of a novelty for the Herzog as it's his first in 3-D. Herzog felt it was a necessary stylistic decision for his documentary about the extraordinary ancient cave paintings of Chauvet-Pont-d'Arc, which were designed to interact with the physical shape of the caves themselves.

The film allowed the director to explore a fascination he's had with cave paintings since childhood. "It was my first independent intellectual quest," claimed Herzog. "There was a book of cave paintings that intrigued me which was inaccessible because I couldn't buy it.

"I only saw it in the display window of a bookstore and it took me half a year to earn the money. I was desperately working as a ballboy in tennis courts and things like this. I hoped that nobody would buy the book because I thought at that time when I was 12 that it would disappear when somebody bought it.

"It didn't occur to me that a book had many copies."

The visually arresting film took a great deal of political wrangling and exhausting physical effort to achieve and while the results are finally being enjoyed by audiences,

Herzog has already turned his attention to three other films he's currently working on simultaneously.

"It keeps on flowing and the moment I finish one film there are six or seven others out there. I've never managed to keep at rest," admitted the director.

"There is a whole culture of complaints when you speak to filmmakers. They're always complaining about how difficult it is, but I'm just rolling up my sleeves and digging into it."

TIFF in brief

Oscar-winning British actress Helen Mirren has only vague memories of the U.K.'s 1964 mod-rocker clashes that are re-enacted in her upcoming film Brighton Rock showing at TIFF.

But she clearly remembers which side she favoured. She always preferred the Rolling Stones to the Beatles.

"I would've been more of a rocker than mod," Mirren, 65, said. "I didn't like all those neat little (mod) suits and neat little haircuts. I liked the more rough and ready, and leather jackets and bikes and stuff like that."

MONGREL NO MUTT AT TIFF

In Focus

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

One of the first images projected on a screen at this year's Toronto International Film Festival was the Mongrel Media logo which popped up in the opening credits of Score: A Hockey Musical. Established in 1994 Mongrel has grown to become a powerhouse film distributor and TIFF regular.

"Playing a film at TIFF is every distributor's dream," says Director of Marketing and Theatrical Releasing Danish Vahidy. "Capote, Volver, Away from Her, One Week, A Prophet, An Education, The Lives Of Others. TIFF helped put all these films and Mongrel on the map. Mongrel had one film at the 1996 TIFF (our first) and now fourteen this year."

Of the bakers dozen plus one Mongrel movies at the fest this year, including the Mike Leigh comedy Another Year, Woody Allen's latest You Will Meet a Tall Dark Stranger and the blistering financial meltdown documentary Inside Job, Vahidy says Score: A Hockey Musical provided two of his most memorable moments at this year's TIFF.

"We were thrilled when we heard that Score: A Hockey Musical was selected as the opening night film," he says. "How often do you get Olivia Newton-John and Walter Gretzky on the same red carpet?

"To have the film receive a standing ovation was overwhelming. And now I can't get the finale song out of my mind. 'Hockey, hockey… the greatest game in the land.'"

When asked about his favourite Mongrel Media moment from past years at the festival he says it would be "the reaction from the crowd after the opening night screening of Water at Roy Thomson Hall.

"We knew that night that we had something special on our hands and it was great to see the progression of the film from that night to its Academy Award nomination."

On a more personal note he adds, "Sharing the back seat of a limo with Penelope Cruz would have to come in second! I think our publicist would say that sharing the back seat of a limo with [Indian superstar and heartthrob] John Abraham is right up there as well."

▶ Scott Speedman, Emily Hampshire and Jay Baruchel star in the dark comedy Good Neighbours.

Gory neighbours

'Your life will inform how you see our movie' 'Good depends on context'

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Take one part Twin Peaks, mix with one part Roman Polanski and you have Good Neighbours. It's a dark comedy set in an apartment building in Montreal's Notre-Dame-de-Grâce that features a murder, which star Jay Baruchel calls "if not the goriest, then the most uncomfortable death scene in any movie this year."

The events leading up to the grisly, but darkly amusing incident involve three young Montrealers, the wheelchair bound Spencer (Scott Speedman), cat lover Louise (Emily Hampshire) and Victor, an earnest school teacher played by Baruchel. As their lives become entwined it becomes difficult for them — and the audience — to know who to trust.

"It will be polarizing, but I think this movie really gets under your skin."
JAY BARUCHEL

"It will be polarizing," says Baruchel, who was last seen starring opposite Nicolas Cage in The Sorcerer's Apprentice, "but I think this movie really gets under your skin."

It's also the kind of movie that probably wouldn't easily find funding in Hollywood.

"The main reason this would never get made stateside is that it leaves too much up to the audience," says Baruchel. "The studios don't like that. They like to kind of give you a road map and let you know when you are supposed to be sad or happy and who you are meant to root for. Director Jacob Tierney says his favourite thing when talking to people after screenings is what they project on it. Some people will say that my character is so lovely and sympathetic and others think he's really creepy. Your life will inform how you see our movie, I think.

"If I was to sum up the whole movie, and specifically my character it would be 'Good depends on context.' I really think this movie is nothing if not a grey area. It's still going to be rewarding but there is this really uncomfortable sense of humour that permeates the whole thing. Jacob wants people to be on edge from beginning to end."

One person, however, that Baruchel doesn't want the movie to rattle is his mother. "There is a reason my mother is not coming to the movie (premier) tonight. I said 'You can watch the movie just not beside me.'"

Canuck pride

"I'm very grateful for the career I've had in the states. It has afforded my mother, my sister and I lives we otherwise never would have had," says Baruchel. "That being said … by and large the things I have been most proud of have all been here."

Tabloid
Genre: Documentary
Director: Errol Morris
Stars: Joyce McKinney
●●●●●
Documentary filmmaker Errol Morris is known for profiling eccentric personalities and in Tabloid he really hit the jackpot. His subject is a woman who became a tabloid sensation in 1977 for flying to England to kidnap and allegedly rape the repressed Mormon man and in 2006 paid $150,000 to have five clones made of her dog named Booger. What connects these two events is even stranger than you could possibly imagine. How much is true is difficult to gauge because the conflicting stories come from a delusional woman and less than trustworthy tabloid journalists, and nothing they say is more outlandish than the two undisputed facts. Tabloid is easily one of the most compelling and ridiculously entertaining films you'll see this year.
PHIL BROWN

Super
Genre: Action/comedy/drama
Director: James Gunn
Stars: Rain Wilson, Ellen Page, Kevin Bacon
●●●
Super is the fourth comedy in recent years about a depressed social malcontent who decides to become a superhero and the only real problem is that it all feels very familiar. The Office star Rain Wilson (in his best performance) takes on the would-be hero role and is clearly insane, using his alter ego to smash people in the face with a wrench when they cut in line. It's a touching, hilarious, violent, and surprisingly depressing film that would be an instant cult classic were it not for all the precursors. Fortunately the writing and acting are strong enough for the film to stand on it's own. An excellent follow up to Slither for emerging cult filmmaker James Gunn.
PHIL BROWN

A Beginner's Guide To Endings
Genre: Comedy/drama
Director: Jonathan Sobol
Stars: Scott Caan, Paulo Castanzo, Harvey Keitel
●●½
Screenwriter Jonathan Sobol moves into the director's chair with this odd comedy about a group of brothers who learn they might be dying because of the drugs their father made them take for medical testing as children (he was a bad guy). A strong cast including Scott Caan and Paul Castanzo as the boys and Harvey Keitel as the deadbeat dad makes the film consistently compelling, but Sobol's screenplay is too over-stuffed with characters, awkward coincidences, and failed gags to ever gel. It also doesn't help that his directorial style relies so heavily on visual gimmickry that it becomes exhausting. Not as entertaining as it wants to be, but still a pleasant time-waster.

You Will Meet A Tall Dark Stranger
Genre: Comedy/romance
Director: Woody Allen
Stars: Naomi Watts, Josh Brolin, Anthony Hopkins
●●●½
For me the beginning of any Woody Allen movie is like a warm hug. The familiar font, jaunty jazz theme and alphabetized credits are an important part of my movie going lexicon as are Allen's familiar themes concerning fate, sex, love and death. He has essayed these subjects before and revisits them again in You Will Meet a Tall Dark Stranger. Set in London, the only thing that really sets this apart from his NYC films is the accents. It's a mix of light comedy and satire buoyed by great performances from Gemma Jones, Josh Brolin and Lucy Punch.
RICHARD CROUSE

It's Kind Of A Funny Story
Genre: Comedy/drama
Director: Anna Boden & Ryan Fleck
Stars: Zack galifianakis, Keir Gilchrist, Emma Roberts
●●●½
An alternately hilarious and poignant tale of suicidal depression from co-directors Anna Boden and Ryan Fleck (Half Nelson, Sugar). Like their previous work, the duo take a potential movie-of-the-week concept (in this case a troubled teen learning he's not so crazy while locked in a psyche ward) and find the kernel of truth in the story, transforming it into a heartfelt and honest movie. The duo also give Zach Galifianakis (The Hangover) his first semi-serious role and the comedian delivers a surprisingly restrained and thoughtful performance sprinkled with moments of his patented comic insanity. A small movie that seems fleeting while it plays, but resonates deeply after the credits roll.

Trust
Genre: Drama
Director: David Schwimmer
Stars: Liana Liberato, Clive Owen, Catherine Keener
●●●
David Schwimmer directs a dark drama about chat room child predators and while the final result is far from a masterpiece, he does a surprisingly good job with difficult subject matter. Liana Liberato stars as the child preyed upon online and gives an impressively raw performance for such a young actress. Clive Owen broods as the vengeful father and Catherine Keener offers a typically strong supporting turn as the distraught mother. For the most part the material is presented in a disturbingly ambiguous manner, but Schwimmer indulges too often in scenes vying for Oscar clip consideration with endless minutes wasted watching the actors look pained off camera or crying hysterically.
● PHIL BROWN

Poetry
Genre: Drama
Director: Lee Chang-Dong
Stars: Yun Junghee, David Lee
●●●●½
Like his previous Secret Sunshine, South Korean director Lee Chang-Dong's new film Poetry focuses on a woman under great psychological strain. Despite her chic appearance and sunny demeanour, 65-year-old Mija has problems with her health and her grandson, whom she has raised on her own. To cope, she enrols in a poetry course, but finds that transcendence doesn't come easily, either. Exquisitely written and acted, Poetry confirms Lee as one of his country's smartest and most compassionate auteurs.
● ADAM NAYMEN

Conviction
Genre: Drama
Director: Tony Goldwyn
Stars: Hilary Swank, Sam Rockwell
●●½
You cannot deny that Conviction is a compelling tale. Based on the true story of Betty Anne Waters, a Massachusetts woman who believed so strongly her incarcerated brother was innocent of murder, she became a lawyer with the sole purpose of freeing the sibling. That's pretty impressive. On the big screen, however, Conviction is much less buoyant than it should be. Sure, it's certainly given some gravitas thanks to Hilary Swank and especially Sam Rockwell who turns in a stunning performance as the somewhat reckless jailbird. Beyond their performances though, Conviction rarely rises above the level of an impressive Law & Order episode.
● STEVE GOW

I'm Still Here
Genre: Documentary
Director: Casey Affleck
Stars: Joaquin Phoenix, P. Diddy, Ben Stiller
●●●
Was Joaquin Phoenix's brief failed music career a hoax? That's the question that everyone hoped Casey Affleck's highly anticipated documentary would answer and admirably the movie doesn't make things clear. It will be debated, but more likely than not this was an elaborate Andy Kaufman-style stunt designed to show how easily the media can manipulate a tragic personal meltdown into primetime yucks. The film is not without it's problems and the filmmakers should have been more open about how true it is, but that doesn't prevent I'm Still Here from being compelling viewing.
● PHIL BROWN

The Illusionist
Genre: Drama
Director: Sylvain Chomet
Stars: Jean-Claude Donda, Eilidh Rankin
●●●●
Sylvain Chomet's follow up to the Triplets Of Belville is another incredible hand-drawn feature of almost silent animation. Working from an unproduced script by legendary French filmmaker Jacques Tati (Playtime), The Illusionist follows a very Tatilike aging magician sadly watching his art form become antiquated while finding friendship with a young Scottish girl who believes his magic to be real. Though often quite funny, The Illusionist is wistful and melancholic in contrast to the energetic exuberance of Chomet's previous work, but no less impressive for it. This a beautiful example of a sadly dying form of animation and a genuine work of art.
● PHIL BROWN

Film Socialisme
Genre: Drama
Director: Jean-Luc Godard
Stars: Patti SMith, Jean-Marc Stehle, Catherine Tanvier
●●●●
Age hasn't mellowed Jean-Luc Godard. Film Socialisme finds the New Wave stalwart still pushing formal boundaries — and the audience's buttons. A combination travelogue/essay film set variably aboard a cruise ship, in and around a gas station and across the history of cinema itself, Film Socialisme isn't designed to be understood in a single viewing (and the purposefully abstract subtitles make it even harder). But the sheer beauty of Godard's DV compositions should be enticement enough even for the easily intimidated.
● ADAM NAYMEN

Beginners
Genre: Comedy
Director: Mike Mills
Stars: Ewan McGregor, Melanie Laurent, Christopher Plummer
●●½
Five years after a strong debut with Thumbsucker, Mike Mills returns with a film that sadly suffers from the all too common sophomore slump. It's a melancholic comedy starring Ewan McGregor as a man who grew up emotionally detached, but gradually learns to feel because of two people (His father who came out as a homosexual at 75 and became happier than ever despite dying of cancer, and a mysterious French actress who steals his heart.) The acting is uniformly strong, but the film is neither as emotionally resonant as it wants to be, nor as funny as it needs to be to overcome all the depression.

Bell tackles her bully

Actress and You Again director have friendship that goes back more than 10 years Andy Fickman convinced starlet to head to Los Angeles Bell definitely does not fit the stereotype of a needy Hollywood type

SASHA PERL-RAVER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

▶ Kristen Bell, right, and Odette Yustman star in You Again. Yustman's character tormented Bell in high school and is now engaged to her brother.

"High school is a pit of despair," Kristen Bell declares. "It's a swirling tornado of insecurities and there's really nothing good about it."

Truer words have never been spoken. But Bell isn't bemoaning her teenage years in Michigan. She's actually talking about the setting of her new film, You Again.

Directed by Bell's longtime friend and collaborator, Andy Fickman, the comedy follows a successful woman (Bell) who realizes her brother is going to marry the girl who mercilessly bullied her throughout high school (Odette Yustman), so she sets out to expose the fiancée's dastardly true colours.

With a supporting cast that includes Sigourney Weaver, Jamie Lee Curtis and newly minted national treasure Betty White, Bell was in co-star heaven while revisiting the darkest period of most people's lives.

"(In high school) you're on this learning curve of who you are and who you want to be, and you're comparing yourself to everyone around you and there's no sense to it," she says. "Everyone just wants to be loved and no one feels loved enough in high school."

Of course, the actress could just as easily be describing Hollywood. "Touché," she smirks, hoisting one well-arched eyebrow and nodding her head in agreement. "Totally."

Yet unlike many young actors on a desperate quest for attention and accolades, Bell had to be convinced to move to Hollywood, and it was You Again director Fickman who persuaded her.

The pair met 10 years ago during a production of Reefer Madness. Not long after the show closed, Bell recalls, "Andy said 'I think you need to move to L.A.,' and I said, 'You're drunk.'" After much insistence and his promise to "be your family there," Bell packed her bags and came out West.

"I have a best friendship and a weird older brother relationship with Andy, and it's a relationship I'll take to my grave," she says. "I love him so much. I do projects with him all the time, they just don't warrant this kind of press. We've done plays together in black box theaters that seat 17 people and it's because we like working together."

Animated rom-com

Alpha and Omega
Genre: Animation
Directors: Anthony Bell, Ben Gluck
Stars: Justin Long, Hayden Panettiere, Dennis Hopper
●½

These days, average animation films — even those targeted specifically at children — pack enough CGI wizardry and writing smarts to keep the bar high for this ever-evolving genre.

So it's surprising that Alpha and Omega's tale of two wolves runs in the opposite direction — a throwback to the stylistic simplicity of old-school Disney features minus the charm and heart.

This painstakingly dull movie marks out familiar animal territory: Kate (voiced by Hayden Panettiere) is a young, alpha she-wolf, groomed to be a hunter and provider for her pack. Humphrey (Justin Long) belongs to the other side of the social order — an omega who spends his day goofing around with his equally inept mates and dreams about "howling at the moon" with Kate.

Just before Kate is about to be paired off with an alpha male from a rival pack in order to keep the peace within Jasper National Park's wolf community, she and Humphrey are shipped off across the border by meddling park rangers to repopulate the forests of Idaho. Their journey back home propels the film's action, leading to a predictable rom-com-type conclusion.

It's hard to imagine kids finding any excitement in this laughs-free exercise with no reason to exist in 3-D (yet, it does). One can only sympathize with those parents who have to sit through the movie and with late Hollywood icon Dennis Hopper — this happens to be his final finished film.

KUMAR SAHA

Easy A
Genre: Comedy
Director: Will Gluck
Stars: Emma Stone, Thomas Haden Church, Patricia Clarkson
●●●

A surprisingly hilarious comedy about a good girl (Emma Stone) willfully accepting a less than ladylike reputation at her school to help her fellow rejects and create some semblance of a social life. The script is filled with loving nods to the '80s teen flicks of John Hughes and The Scarlet Letter, and it's a mini-miracle that the resulting film doesn't crumble under the invited comparisons. All credit goes to a playful and talented cast as well as a team of filmmakers who somehow found life left in the high school comedy. PHIL BROWN

The Virginity Hit
Genre: Comedy
Directors: Andrew Gurland and Huck Botko
Stars: Matt Bennett, Zack Pearlman
●●●

A teen-comedy mockumentary for the YouTube age, The Virginity Hit featuresg budding comedian Zack Pearlman, who films and posts online all aspect of his three best friends' teenage lives, including his friend Matt's efforts to lose his virginity to his girlfriend Nicole. We've all been here before, but the filmmakers build real characters that people can identify with.

IAN GORMELY

The Town
Genre: Action/Drama
Director: Ben Affleck
Stars: Ben Affleck, Rebecca Hall, Jeremy Renner
●●●½

The sophomore directorial effort from Affleck, The Town is a quick-paced heist movie about a group of robbers in the Boston neighbourhood of Charleston — literally the bank robber capital of America. When one near-botched heist takes an unexpected turn after Jem (Jeremy Renner) briefly takes a hostage (Rebecca Hall) , gangleader Doug (Affleck) strikes up a relationship with the girl in order to keep tabs on her dealings with the FBI. TIFF'S BEST SUCCESS STORIES

During the Toronto International Film Festival you'll see stars sipping lattes at the Starbucks in Yorkville and dolled-up on the red carpet at Roy Thompson Hall, but my favourite way to see them is up on the big screen. Celebrity gazing is a pleasant enough festival diversion, but the star attraction is the films.

Over the last 35 years the festival has run over 10,000 movies through their projectors. Obviously not all have gone on to win awards and break office records, but the festival has a surprisingly good track record at picking and showcasing hits. Chariots of Fire, The Big Chill and The Princess Bride all took home the fest's People's Choice Award and recent Oscar winners from TIFF include four award winner No Country for Old Men and Capote, which earned a Best Actor Oscar for its star Phillip Seymour Hoffman.

This year as the Oscar buzz is already building for TIFF treats Black Swan (director Darren Aronofsky's follow-up to The Wrestler), Paul Giamatti's performance in Barney's Version and the Bruce Springsteen documentary The Promise: The Making of Darkness on the Edge of Town, I thought I'd look back at movies that used Toronto as a springboard for later success.

SLUMDOG MILLIONAIRE

Although not technically a TIFF premiere — it was first shown at the Telluride Film Festival — director Danny Boyle credits the Toronto festival audience's reaction to the film with saving it from a terrible fate — going direct to DVD.

RAY

Before Ray premiered at the 2004 TIFF Jamie Foxx was best known as a comedian whose credits included dressing in drag as the ugliest woman in the world, Wanda ▶ Public reaction to Slumdog Millionaire at TIFF helped catapult it into Oscar contention.

Wayne, on In Living Color who occasionally dabbled in serious films like Oliver Stone's Any Given Sunday. After TIFF he was a serious actor, on the path to winning a Best Actor Academy Award.

ROGER & ME

At the start of the festival 21 years ago Michael Moore was an unknown documentary filmmaker hawking a self-financed film about the economic impact GM CEO Roger Smith's decision to close down several auto plants in Flint, Mich. By the festival's end Moore was a media celebrity with a People's Choice Award and a film that would go on to win ten other major awards — although no Oscar. Moore would have to wait until Bowling for Columbine — which also played at TIFF — won the 2003 statue for Best Documentary.

Film leads to distubring place

PHIL BROWN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Ariel Schulman and Henry Joost like to film everything they do, just in case. These days, you never know when you'll stumble onto a clip that'll make you the toast of the internet for 15 minutes.

"We're compulsive chroniclers" explained Schulman, who admits to having folders full of footage of his brother Nev leaning back in a chair in their office because "one of these days he's going to fall and I might want to build a video around it."

That instinct lead to their debut feature Catfish about Nev's odd online relationship with a family that led to an in person meeting with disastrous and distressing results. Revealing more would be unfair, but the digital documentary caused a stir at Sundance and the obvious joke is that it could do for Facebook what Psycho did for showers.

Schulman and Joost filmed every moment of the online affair hoping that they'd make "a short film about a little friendship that started online between a painter and a photographer." They ended up with something far more complex and disturbing, but admirably continued chronicling every moment from Nev's first awkward phone call with his mysterious online admirer on. Joost admitted to only missing, "a great fight that Ariel and Nev had afterwards that I sort of wish I'd filmed, but it's probably better that I didn't because someone would have broken my wrist."

"The audience experience has been really great, which was a huge surprise. I had no idea what to expect from watching it with strangers in a large numbers."
ARIEL SCHULMAN

The close friendship between Ariel, Henry, and Nev managed to survive the ordeal of shooting and now they have possibly the first cautionary tale of the Facebook age. The film's "star" Nev has found that audiences "are immediately familiar with me after seeing the movie and come up and say, "oh my god Nev, I've got to tell you something.'" As a result the filmmakers have been inundated with similar tales of online deception. "These stories are happening all over the place, but they're just not getting caught on film," said Ariel.

As to what the team have planned next now that they've broken into the world of professional filmmaking, Ariel joked, "We'll probably just film Nev every one in a while and hope for the best."

Allergies
are a modern epidemic

#24

It really works! 100% natural. Try it risk free. Relief Guaranteed or Money Refunded! ■ Last 4 years in spring I had allergy attacks with runny nose, sore throat and headaches. Just 2 capsules Bell Allergy Relief #24 brought relief. Belinda Wilfong, 41, Hillsboro, MO ■ For 20 years my life was miserable with sneezing, watery eyes and sinus pressure year-round on most days. I was amazed. On 3rd day all allergies were gone. It was like magic. Becky Gerber, 25, Dover, OH ■ Golfing without allergy attacks I tried all the medications and none worked. After taking 1 capsule in the morning I'm completely free of all symptoms. Richard Gamez, 74, San Antonio, TX ■ God bless you I went from doctor to doctor for years with allergy sinus problems. The medications made me still sicker. After starting Bell Allergy Relief one capsule at night I felt like born again the next morning. Therese Noto, 58, New York, NY

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?
Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Sleep & Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a C-Pap machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ For 27 years I suffered with sleep apnea and would wake up with a hangover even though I don't drink. After I started to use the CPAP sleep machine 3 years ago my life improved a great deal but not 100%. Only after I used your Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23 for 2 days sleep got even better. I woke up today refreshed for the first time. Samuel Moses, Markham, ON

#60

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside and leaving the actual cause untreated. Here are a few examples:

ACNE
Eczema
Psoriasis
Pimples
Rashes

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

■ I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried Benzoyl Peroxide, Proactiv, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC ■ In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Clean Clear, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX ■ Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product like Murad, Proactiv and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL ■ Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON ■ I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC

■ All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60.

Friends express their concern

Friends are already starting to worry about Lindsay Lohan slipping back into her old partying lifestyle after the troubled actress was spotted pulling an all-nighter at New York nightclub the Boom Boom Room, according to Us Weekly. "It's the same old cycle of lying and denials," a source says. "She's telling everyone she didn't go out. We're like, 'Lindsay, people saw you there!'" Lohan reportedly hit the club less than three weeks after leaving rehab. "Everything that she went through seems not to have changed her a bit." METRO

Jackson family suing AEG

EVERYONE IS AT FAULT FOR MICHAEL'S DEATH BUT NOT MJ HIMSELF Michael Jackson's family is suing concert promoter AEG for allegedly forcing the singer into a grueling rehearsal schedule that led to his death, according to People magazine.

The lawsuit, filed this week in Los Angeles, alleges that Jackson was "shivering and disoriented" at his final rehearsal.

"AEG had legal duties to Michael Jackson to treat him safely and to not put him in harm's way," the lawsuit states.

"But AEG, despite its knowledge of Michael Jackson's physical condition, breached those duties by putting its desire for massive profits from the tour over the health and safety of Michael Jackson."

Berries

The health benefits of berries and walnuts could include activating the natural house keeping and anti-ageing of our brains. Their anti oxidant and anti-inflammatory properties are already recognised, but recent studies by the American Chemical Society have shown that the whole fruit extracts of both berries and walnuts activated the housekeeping process referred to as "autophagy" in the cells. This mechanism cleans up and recycles proteins linked to age-related memory loss and mental decline.

Food fit for the stars

Hungry Hollywood celebrities turn to the Elmore sisters for practical, nutritious meals

Jewels and Jill Elmore know what John Travolta has in his fridge, the food Arnold Schwarzenegger and Maria Shriver are serving dinner guests and that Jennifer Aniston is high on energy-giving nutritious foods.

The two sisters are personal chefs to many of Hollywood's celebrities, often travelling with them or preparing the daily menus for their families at home.

Although the pair didn't have formal culinary training, "we attended a lot of cooking and nutrition classes before joining a catering company," says 43-year-old Jewels.

But as word spread about the sisters' abundant talent for food shopping and preparing delicious meals, they decided to start their own business.

"So we are employed by one client at a time to work their home on a full-time basis," says Jill, 40.

Raised in California in a large and closely knit Mexican-American family, the pair learned their culinary skills mainly from a grandmother.

And what makes them sought after is their emphasis on healthy eating. This is particularly important to the celebrity clientele they have amassed.

"Sometimes our clients are working on a specific movie role and they have to lose a few pounds for a bathing suit shot," says Jewels. "And there are others who have to gain some weight.

"Most of all, the people we work for are really concerned about consuming healthy fresh foods so they can keep their energy levels up."

The pair shop at farmers markets, fishmongers and butchers for the food they serve their clients.

"We tell them what we have that is fresh and give them some options for what we can make them that day," says Jill.

Both sisters have young boys — one is 2 1/2 years old while the other is three. "At the moment we are sharing a job because of two small children,"

THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Jewels and Jill Elmore say they're looking forward to trying Toronto's restaurants.

▶ The sisters emphasize fresh, wholesome ingredients, as in this peach and raspberry dessert.

Pro tips

Personal chef sisters Jewels and Jill Elmore share some of their cooking tips:

Fishy When you saute or grill fish, preheat the oven to 230 C (450 F) before you begin cooking. If the fish browns before it has cooked through, finish it for a few minutes in the oven.

Hot pot Always make sure the pan you cook with is very hot before you begin. You'll use less oil because the heat disperses it quickly and evenly and everything will cook better.

RECIPE

The task of feeding celebrities is not for the faint-hearted, to be sure, but Jewels and Jill Elmore have it down pat, and are changing the way many famous stars eat. Here from their cookbook The Family Chef is a special dessert they created.

Preparation:

Peach and Raspberry Crisp

1. Preheat oven to 190 C (375 F).
2. In a large bowl, combine raspberries and peaches. Add lemon zest, lemon juice, honey, sugar and flour. Toss gently to coat. Place mixture in bottom of 4 ramekins, dividing evenly.
3. In a bowl, combine bran cereal, almonds, brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add butter and combine until crumbly. Place mixture on top of fruit, dividing evenly.
4. Bake for 35 to 40 minutes or until bubbly. If topping is browning too quickly, tent with foil for the last 10 minutes.
5. Let cool for 10 minutes before serving. Garnish with fresh raspberries and mint. Makes 4 servings.

Ingredients:

Peach and Raspberry Crisp

- 170 g (6 oz) raspberries
- 750 ml (3 cups) peaches, peeled and sliced
- 5 ml (1 tsp) lemon zest
- 5 ml (1 tsp) lemon juice
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) honey
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) granulated sugar
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) all-purpose flour

Topping

- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) bran cereal
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) sliced almonds
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) brown sugar
- 5 ml (1 tsp) cinnamon
- Pinch ground nutmeg
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) cold butter
- Fresh raspberries and mint sprigs, for garnish

Exhibition on Alfred Stieglitz showcases photographer's images of Old New York at the turn of the century

A new exhibition of photographs by Alfred Stieglitz offers a view of New York City at the turn of the 20th century through the eyes of one of the world's most celebrated photographers.

Alfred Stieglitz New York at the Seaport Museum New York features 39 vintage photographs, many shot from the windows of his midtown-Manhattan apartment and galleries. It opens on Wednesday and runs through Jan. 19, 2011.

It is the first time these works are being shown together since 1932 when Stieglitz showed them at An American Place, a gallery he operated from 1929 until his death in 1946, said the exhibition curator Bonnie Yochelson.

The photographs cover the periods from 1893 to 1916 and 1930 to 1935, contrasting Stieglitz's images of Old New York with later images of the city as it emerged as a great metropolis.

HANDOUT/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ A new exhibition of iconic images by Stieglitz offers a view of New York City at the turn of the 20th century

Stieglitz, whose second wife was artist Georgia O'Keeffe, was a strong proponent of photography as an art form and founded the Photo-Secession group to promote photography "as a distinctive medium of individual expression."

His first gallery, 291, which he ran from 1905 to 1917, also introduced to the United States such European painters as Pablo Picasso, Paul Cezanne, Henri Matisse and Auguste Rodin.

Assembled from the collections of about a dozen major American museums and individuals, the Seaport Museum photographs include Stieglitz's iconic print of the Flatiron building near Madison Square Park. The soft focus, misty print was taken on a snowy night, and like many of his images, it has the quality of a painting.

Another print, The Terminal, depicts another wintry scene of a horse-drawn omnibus on a slushy street in front of the old Post Office in the city's financial district.

The exhibition features three platinum prints, taken in 1915 from the back window of 291.

"My reading of these pictures is that they're in a certain way self-portraits, that he's always looking for ways to express his inner state of mind ... and when he settled on these window views — which were not of famous buildings like the Flatiron — that was really when he found his New York, his way of expressing the city," Yochelson said.

The three images show the same view — townhouses and commercial loft buildings — at different times of day and in different seasons.

Highlighting the museum's seaport theme, the exhibition features "The Ferry," a moody, dark picture of a ferry boat near Cortlandt Street in lower Manhattan, one of a series of harbour pictures, all taken by Stieglitz in 1910.

A separate gallery contains a small presentation of Stieglitz's lantern slides, the precursor of the old-fashioned slide carousel, that never have been shown before. The slides, scanned by the museum from originals, were used by members of the Camera Club of New York, of which Stieglitz was a member, to show each other their latest work.

"Stieglitz loved the medium, he thought it was beautiful to have these translucent projected images," Yochelson said.

The third and last gallery of the exhibition is called The Face of New York. It contrasts Stieglitz's personal vision with a variety of material by other artists to show the wide variety of imagery of New York that was developing during his time.

"It's meant to give this sort of high temple of art feeling, which was Stieglitz's view of himself and his work, with the kind of hustle-bustle dynamic imagery and feeling of the city which was showing up by others," Yochelson said.

With a number of players who helped make them a champion now calling other cities home, it will be interesting to see how coach Joel Quenneville incorporates a number of new faces into his lineup. Also, after an extremely short summer, are the competitive fires still burning in Chicago?

2. GOALIE GAME

Antti Niemi has taken his talents — and Cup ring — to northern California, where he's expected to split the Sharks crease with Antero Niittymaki. Who will emerge as the go-to guy in San Jose? After a decade in Dallas, Marty Turco is now playing for Chicago. Can he rebound from a tough year? Michael Leighton started Game 6 of the Stanley Cup final for Philadelphia. Will he be in goal when the Flyers open the 2010-11 regular season?

3. READY ROOKIES

While most expect top pick Taylor Hall to play in Edmonton this season, it remains to be seen how many others from the 2010 draft class will make the jump with him. Tyler Seguin, selected second by Boston, seems like a good bet — as do the rest of the top-5 selections: Florida's Erik Gudbranson; Columbus's Ryan Johansen; and Nino Niederreiter of the New York Islanders. A second-round pick has occasionally made a surprising ascension in the past ... are there any of those out there?

4. PUT ME IN, COACH

Guy Boucher is just 39 years old and finds himself running an NHL training camp for the first time as head coach of the Tampa Bay Lightning. Will his success in the QMJHL and AHL translate to the big leagues? After a number of years as an NHL assistant, John MacLean is finally the head man in New Jersey. Can he return the Devils back to their past glory? And how long will it take for a veteran coach — Ron Wilson in Toronto? — to find himself on the hot seat?

5. COMPETITIVE CANUCKS

The Vancouver Canucks break training camp with arguably the best chance of the six Canadian teams to put together a special season. They feature a bolstered blueline with the additions of Dan Hamhuis and Keith Ballard, and didn't lose any major pieces up front. Presumably, Roberto Luongo will return with a weight lifted off his shoulders after surrendering the captain's role this week. Will it all add up to Canada's first Stanley Cup championship parade since 1993?

Wells recognized for work in community

Toronto Blue Jays centrefielder Vernon Wells is the winner of the 2010 Branch Rickey Award in recognition of his work with kids in the community.

Created by the Rotary Club of Denver in 1991, the Branch Rickey Award honours individuals in baseball who contribute to their communities and are strong role models for young people.

"I'm blessed to be in a position where I can give back — not only money, but in time."
VERNON WELLS

Each year, major league teams nominate a player, coach or executive, either active or retired, for the award. Last year's winner was Los Angeles Angels outfielder Torii Hunter.

Wells, 31, will be honoured at a banquet in Denver Nov. 13.

"Any time you can win an award with Branch Rickey's name attached to it, it's an honour," Wells said.

Staal to miss start of season

PENGUINS. Pittsburgh forward Jordan Staal needs five to six weeks to recover from the latest procedure performed on his injured right foot and will miss the start of the NHL season.

A tendon on the top of Staal's foot was sliced when Canadiens defenceman P.K. Subban stepped on it during an April 30 playoff game.

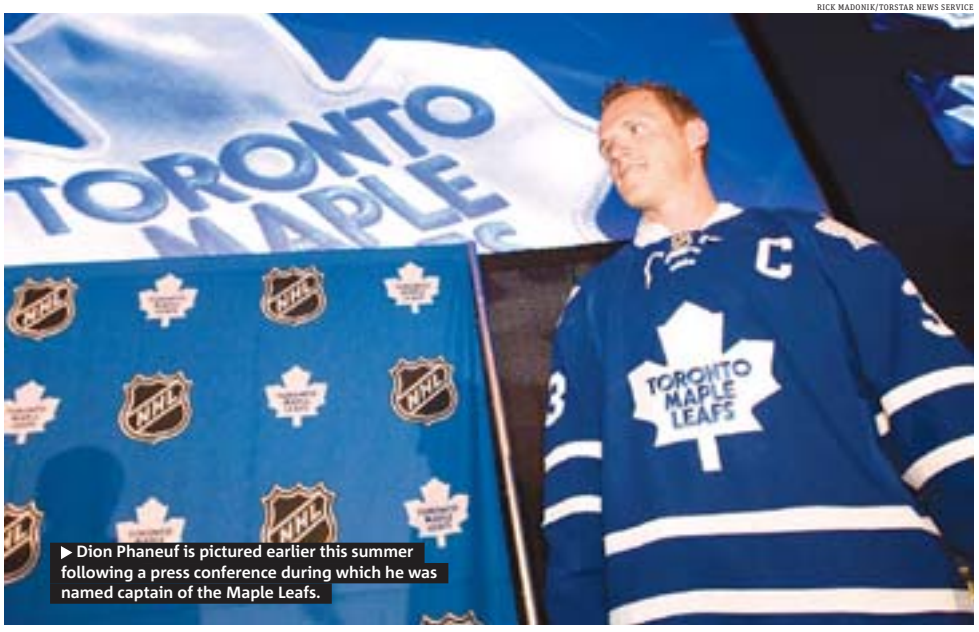
Phaneuf, Leafs anxious to get season started

- Excitement building in Toronto as NHL camps set to open Friday
- Hope springs in Edmonton as No. 1 pick Hall looks to crack roster

RICK MADONIK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE



▶ Dion Phaneuf is pictured earlier this summer following a press conference during which he was named captain of the Maple Leafs.

At this time of year, optimism is easiest to find in NHL cities that have endured the longest summers.

With training camps set to open around the league Friday, there's a palpable level of excitement in places like Toronto and Edmonton.

The Maple Leafs and Oilers may have finished 29th and 30th last season, but there seems to be hope that things will be different when the puck drops on this one. In Toronto, there weren't any sweeping changes, but a young core that put together a decent stretch in March is looking forward to a full season together.

"It's going to be an exciting camp," said Leafs defenceman Dion Phaneuf, who was named captain over the summer. "I know everyone's excited to get going. We've been here for a couple weeks skating together, almost every guy.

"Everyone's ready to go. Everyone's excited about the start of training camp."

The majority of NHL teams will conduct medical testing Friday and hold their first on-ice sessions Saturday. The exhibition schedule opens next Tuesday and the regular season begins Oct. 7.

"I know from talking with every guy that we're ready to get going. It's been a long enough summer."
DION PHANEUF

It will be interesting to see who Tom Renney has on the ice at Rexall Place that night when the Oilers face rival Calgary. Top draft pick Taylor Hall joins former first-rounders Jordan Eberle and Magnus Paajarvi in a bid to crack to the roster — potentially giving Edmonton the kind of young scoring lineup it hasn't seen in a couple decades.

Hall has the team's rabid fan base rushing to purchase new No. 4 Oilers sweaters. However, the 19-year-old is more than happy to share the spotlight with Eberle and Paajarvi.

"Hopefully, all three of us can have a really good camp and crack the squad and make a big difference," he said.

3. NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS
4. DAVID COOPER/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

1 Is Nazem Kadri ready? After mentioning early in the summer that Kadri was pencilled in for at least the start of the Leafs' season, general manager Brian Burke is now quick to remind he likes to start prospects in the AHL. Another impressive camp should keep Kadri on board.

2 Can Jonas Gustavsson continue to develop? J.S. Giguere has been tabbed as the No. 1 goalie but a huge part of Toronto's growth — and playoff contention — will centre around whether Gustavsson can eventually surpass him.

3 Who goes on D? With Tomas Kaberle on board and showing no inclination to drop his no-trade clause, the Leafs have nine defencemen under contract.

4 Who plays with Phil Kessel? This will be a theme all season. The Leafs have one obvious offensive star and a handful of second-tier players. This is Mats Sundin redux. Tyler Bozak meshed with Kessel late last season and is the most likely candidate at centre. Nikolai Kulemin or Kris Versteeg is likely to skate on the left side.

Habs looking for more

Carey Price enters the year as the undisputed No. 1 goaltender for a Montreal Canadiens team that is hoping to build on its appearance in the Eastern Conference final last spring.

Naturally, there's excitement in that hockey hotbed as well.

"What last season did was give us a chance to figure out a bit about each other and what we need to do to be successful," said Habs forward Mike Cammalleri. "Based on what took place, now what you have is expectation. Not crazy expectation, but there is from the fans, the media and probably the highest of all from our room.

"So the big challenge for us now is to build off that."

Top 5

Some players from the 2010 draft class could make the jump to the NHL. No. 2 pick Tyler Seguin should get a good look from the Bruins, as will the other top-5 selections: Florida's Erik Gudbranson; Columbus's Ryan Johansen; and Nino Niederreiter of the New York Islanders.

Manchester United gears up for 'big game'

Rooney returns as Man U to take on Liverpool Sunday Chelsea leads the pack with perfect start

With Chelsea making a perfect start to its title defence, Manchester United and Liverpool can't afford another draw when they meet Sunday (Setanta Canada, 8:30 a.m. ET) on the back of an unimpressive opening month of the season.

Chelsea has won four straight Premier League matches, but United has only won twice and is already four points adrift while Liverpool has just one victory and lags the leaders by seven.

United has thrown away four points in two games by conceding late equalizers, including throwing away a 3-1 lead in the 90th minute at Everton last weekend.

"Sunday is a big game — the disappointment of last Saturday has to resonate with the players," United manager Sir Alex Ferguson said. "They can't make mistakes like that again."

United will be boosted by the return of Wayne Rooney, who was dropped last weekend over fears Everton fans would abuse the striker in light of a sex scandal, and defender Rio Ferdinand, who came back from a three-month injury layoff to play in the Champions League Tuesday when United was held 0-0 by Rangers.

Ferguson views fixtures with Liverpool as the biggest in the season for United, with the northwest rivals sharing the record of 18 English titles.

Rodgers unhappy with Week 1 play

Despite scoring 27 points in win over Philadelphia, Packers feel they can improve Club looks to move on after season-ending injury to Grant

Aaron Rodgers' sentiments didn't match the scoreboard.

After putting up 27 points in the Green Bay Packers' season-opening victory at Philadelphia, Rodgers was happy to walk away from a tough road game with a win. He wasn't thrilled with the way he played.

Rodgers knows pretty good won't be good enough this year — not for a team that's expected to contend for the Super Bowl or for a quarterback who is expected to be an MVP candidate. Especially as Packers coach Mike McCarthy tries to plan for Sunday's game against Buffalo without running back Ryan Grant, who is out for the season with an ankle injury.

58
The Packers passed 58 per cent of the time last season, the 12th-highest percentage in the NFL.

"RG, he was a big thing in the offence, and I think McCarthy, he's going to get the ball down the field," tight end Jermichael Finley said. "This pass game, we didn't throw the ball like we should, so he's going to come out and try to make a statement."

Coming off an impressive 2009 and sharp pre-season performance, Rodgers threw for 188 yards with two touchdowns and an uncharacteristic pair of interceptions against the Eagles. Rodgers said he played "terrible" and missed throws he could make in his sleep.

"I didn't throw the ball as well as I wanted to," Rodgers said. "But I'm going to get better and improve. It's interesting when you step back from that game, watch the film and think about the fact you've scored 27 points and were productive and still didn't feel very good about the way you played. We're going to get better."

Offensive co-ordinator Joe Philbin says Packers coaches are using a quote to motivate players this year — "Dissatisfaction is the basis of all progress" — and Rodgers' reaction fits right in.

"We don't want guys to be satisfied," Philbin said. "None of us as a staff, coaching-wise, I think offensively feel like we played up to our potential."

A DAY TO CELEBRATE PLAYING

This Saturday marks the first official celebration of Sports Day in Canada.

Unlike other days, which erect boundaries around passions that citizens enjoy for particular athletic endeavours, Sports Day in Canada is without limits. It's not meant to admire elite, high-performance sport, but instead to reflect the appeal of healthy, active living.

It's about the joy of playing games.

So far, in conjunction with ParticipACTION and True Sport, more than 1,000 events have been registered on the Sports Day in Canada website. These events range from dragon boat racing in Montreal, to learn-to-swim programs in Calgary, to wheelchair rugby in Richmond, B.C., and involve hundreds of thousands of folks across the country who come from all walks of life and in various shapes and sizes.

Sports Day in Canada is proof positive that being an athlete appeals to a vast number of people from coast to coast to coast.

"Today, sport is our most popular and universal form of culture," says Dr. Bruce Kidd, the former dean of physical education at the University of Toronto and himself a Commonwealth Games champion.

"Today, sport is our most popular and universal form of culture. It suggests a safe, comfortable and reassuring haven in a heartless world. I would like to think even in a good world, people would turn to sport for the joy, the excitement, the learning, the companionship and all that it means."
DR. BRUCE KIDD

"It suggests a safe, comfortable and reassuring haven in a heartless world. I would like to think even in a good world, people would turn to sport for the joy, the excitement, the learning, the companionship and all that it means."

It means taking part.

ParticipACTION came about in the early 1970s as a way to promote healthy living and physical fitness and was nationalized by the government of Pierre Elliott Trudeau in order to battle skyrocketing health-care costs.

But this notion of Canadians feeling good because they take part in sport has been overshadowed by a spectator mentality where competitive professional pursuits grab all of the attention. Too many Canadians are watching games instead of playing themselves.

"Only 13 per cent of Canadian kids get the physical activity they need for healthy growth and development," stresses Kidd.

"We had such a remarkable Olympics this winter in Vancouver and Whistler, but there's not been an Olympic bounce in terms of increase in participation. We need to find more ways to get children and adults physically active."

Every sport will finally have its day.

But it means getting off the couch and back to basics to enjoy the magic of play.

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 No matter how go-getting an Aries you may be you cannot do it all on your own and that fact will be hammered home by what happens today.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 As both the Sun and Mercury are transiting the most confident area of your chart you may be tempted to think you can do as you please. Indeed you can, but that does not mean you will get away with it.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 By all means have fun today but don't neglect the needs of other people. On the home front you need to communicate more with those you love.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You seem a bit crabby at the moment, no doubt because you feel that people who should be supporting you are not doing as much as they should.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Don't get caught up in the latest craze just because your friends and family think it's the next big thing. Like most crazes it will most likely come to nothing in the long-term.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Now that Mercury, your ruling planet, is sparkling in your favour again you will see with the kind of clarity that others find scary, especially when they have something to hide.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Hidden fears are coming to the surface and if you don't keep a grip on your imagination you may start believing that the world is against you.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Spend some time alone today and get your thoughts in order. There may be lots of interesting distractions around you but none of them are worth your time and effort.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Even Sagittarians have moments when they wonder if they have what it takes, and you'll have at least one such moment today. The cure for doubt is action, so throw yourself into your work. The results will amaze and delight you.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Better times are coming. In fact they are already here, you've been missing them because you've been focused on the opportunities you wasted rather than the opportunities that are in front of you right now.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Money matters are central at the moment and even if you are one of those Aquarians who care little for possessions, you must make sure you are getting what you deserve.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 A little bit of kindness and understanding on your part will go a long way toward healing a rift that has been growing wider in recent weeks.
